

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

EDITORIAL NOTE.

The reception accorded to the previous issues of the American Art Annual has encouraged me to continue the work in spite of many obstacles, and this, the third volume, is published in the hope that it may assist in the advancement of art in this country by bringing to the notice of the public what has been accomplished during the past year and that it may be of service to those who are working in these lines.

Every effort has been made to bring the record up to date and to maintain as high a standard of accuracy as possible. Letters requesting information were sent to the secretaries of the various societies in May and again in September, and all matter is condensed and quoted from the printed annual reports and the information received from the secretaries. The history and foundation of the older associations will be found in previous volumes, the aim being to give the events of 1899-1900 and the plans for the coming season as far as outlined by October first. The previous plan of alphabetical arrangement, according to cities, has been adhered to.

The principal new features, which add to the usefulness of the work, are the Directory of Architects, the Directory of Art Teachers and Supervisors, the list of artist members of the societies forming the Fine Arts Federation of New York, the tabulating of the Art School reports, lists of Bequests and Gifts, and Prizes and Scholarships.

An endeavor has been made to show the exact purposes of the various societies, the ways and means by which they were established and are being carried on, in order that other societies may benefit by their experience. Calendars of exhibitions and lectures are given, not only as a record of the work accomplished by one club, but as a guide and incentive for others.

Since the first volume of the American Art Annual was published, two years ago, a great advancement is noticeable in the work of the School Art Leagues and the close connection between the opening of Libraries and the establishment of Art Galleries and Art Clubs. The activity of the Architectural Clubs has been increased, and this is due in a great measure to the formation of the Architectural League of America. Many of these Clubs have issued cloth bound catalogues containing special articles and illustrations in addition to the list of exhibits.

I acknowledge with thanks my indebtedness to the members of the Advisory Committee, the secretaries of the various societies and others who have assisted in preparing this volume.

Lastly, the continuation of the work depends on co-operation, and it is hoped that each society and individual artist will take a personal interest in the success of the undertaking and help to increase the circulation.

It is requested that Secretaries forward REPORTS as soon as issued.

APPLIED ARTS AT THE PARIS EXPOSITION.

In addition to the collection of paintings, sculpture, etc., shown in the United States section of the Department of Fine Arts, the art interests of the United States were represented in the National Pavilion, the Department of Education, and Department of "Varied Industries." And two statues were presented to France.

The bronze equestrian statue of Washington (see illustration), the figure by Daniel C. French and the horse by E. C. Potter, was unveiled on July 3, 1900, in the Place d'Iena in Paris and rests on a pedestal of Tennessee marble designed by McKim, Mead and White of New York. It is the gift of the women of the United States to France, and is the first bronze statue sent from this country to Europe, having been cast by the Henry-Bonnard Bronze Company of New York.

The equestrian statue of Lafayette by Paul Bartlett, the gift of the school children of the United States to the French Government, was unveiled in the Place du Carrousel on July 4, 1900. The base is of American granite from the design of Carrère and Hastings.

The National Pavilion (see illustration) was designed by C. A. Coolidge, of Chicago, and Morin Goustiaux, the interior decoration being under the supervision of Frank D. Millet. The plaster model of the equestrian statue of Washington (the bronze having been erected in the Place d'Iena) stands under the porch over the esplanade. Above the porch, in front of the dome, is a "Victory and Quadriga" by A. Phimister Proctor; the spandrels are by H. A. McNeil; the eagles and decorative motives by John Flanagan; and portrait busts of Lincoln and Grant by Clara L. Hill. Below the arched ceiling of the vestibule is the decoration by Robert Reid, "America Unveiling Her Natural Strength" (see illustration). The interior mural decorations consist of figures by Reid, decorative designs by Elmer E. Garnsey (see illustration) and "Industrial Arts" by Augustus Koopman.

Among the "Varied Industries" are several stained glass windows sent from New York. The one executed by J. & R. Lamb was designed by Frederick S. Lamb, the subject being "Religion" (see illustration). The figure sits enthroned, supported on either side by angelic figures representing the "Church Militant" with the sword and the "Church Triumphant" with the spray of lilies. The inscriptions have been executed in special lead work and, out of compliment to the French people, are in their language; the text translated reads "I have sent Mine angels to bear testimony."

The window made by the Tiffany Glass and Decorating Company is later to be placed in the new High School of Philadelphia in memory of the late President of the Board of Education, Edward T. Steel.

Among the collection of Favrite glass sent by the Tiffany Company the most important piece was a punch bowl (see illustration), about thirty inches in diameter. The glass is encased in a frame of chased and wrought golden metal, the design of the base suggesting the effect of breaking waves, while from their foaming crests spring six arms of peacock-hued Favrite glass, they in turn support the uprights of the frame, becoming a richly ornamental band at the top. Three of the supports end in quaintly twisted finials of lustre glass from which hang ladies of metal and iridescent glass.

In the Tiffany & Co. exhibit of jewelry, gold, silver and leather ware was the "Adams Gold Vase" (see illustration) made as a presentation gift. It was designed and modeled by Paulding Farnham, under whose direction the display for the Exposition was prepared. It contains twenty-three pounds of pure gold from Forest City, Cal., and from other States in the Union came the four pieces of quartz, eighteen pieces of rock crystal, thirty-eight pearls, one hundred and sixteen tourmalines, ten amethysts, and thirty spessartites employed in its construction. The whole is nineteen and one-quarter inches high, is entirely wrought by hand, including hammered work, chasing, carving, and enameling, and took nearly eight years to make. The design follows the line of the cotton flower, a figure representing "Modesty" appears on one side and on the other "Genius attended by Agriculture and Commerce." The two youthful figures on the base represent Atlas bearing the financial world and Husbandry holding a cotton branch. The bell shaped cover is of rock crystal.

In the exhibit of the Gorham Manufacturing Company the elaborately hand-wrought silver, called "Martelé" (see illustration), was one of the most prominent features. Each piece is hammered from the bullion, the work of one individual, some of the objects having occupied several years in the making. The Gorham Company received two Grand Prizes, one for silver ware and one for leather goods, also three gold and three silver medals.

In the section of pottery a Grand Prize was awarded to the Rookwood Pottery Company, while to the discoverer of the Rookwood ware and the founder of the pottery, Mrs. Maria Longworth Storer, a medal was awarded. A. R. Valentien of the decorating department received a gold medal and G. Burt of the clay and firing department a silver medal. Many of the pieces were purchased by European museums. A loving cup (see illustration) was sold to the Royal Industrial Art Museum of Berlin.

The exhibit of the National League of Mineral Painters was in charge of Mrs. M. L. Wagner of Detroit, and was awarded a bronze medal.

The Society in its present form was incorporated in 1898, being a consolidation of the "Albany Gallery of Fine Arts," incorporated in 1846 and the original "Albany Historical and Art Society" founded in 1886. Its object is to foster, in and about Albany, a love for the arts and for local history by giving a common meeting ground and furnishing popular instruction and recreation. Through the energy of a few gentlemen the activity of the Society was revived and in March, 1897, the house now occupied was purchased for $12,500, and the rooms were opened in March, 1898. The Annual Meeting is held the first Monday in May.

During the first year of its existence the following exhibitions were held: Water colors, by F. ### UNIVERSITY OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK.

State Library, Albany, N. Y.

Department of Home Education.

A bulletin on "Travelling Pictures and Schoolroom Decoration" has been prepared by the Director's Assistant, Miss Myrtille Avery, for distribution to school principals and others interested in the work, and the following is quoted therefrom. During the last three years the University has circulated among high schools, academies and libraries, photographs of great paintings, architectural monuments and historical portraits. After careful consideration a list of 100 pictures most in demand in New York high schools, has been prepared and the Bulletin contains this list with a half tone of each picture and a brief description together with references for farther reading. The pictures loaned are usually in the largest size obtainable in the best reproductions, each picture is permanently framed, is loaned for the period of one academic year and the fee is $1 for each picture.

In regard to permanent decoration the University will duplicate money held by high school authorities for pictures approved as to subject, quality and price. Before buying pictures a specialist should be consulted and a general plan adopted which will secure the best results both artistically and educationally.

In order to supplement the wall pictures, which have thus far in New York been used mainly for artistic purposes, the University has also travelling collections of small pictures and lantern slides. The travelling pictures are photographs 8x10 inches in size and of the best quality available. They cover nearly every high school subject which admits of illustration. The fee is $1 a month for 100 photographs or 100 slides or for a lantern.

This great increase is due to the success of the exhibition of "Portraits" by John S. Sargent, which was held from February 20 to March 13, 1899.

During the season of 1899-1900 the Association has continued its usual activities, the principal exhibition being that of the "R. The Association owns a large collection of Photographs which circulate under the same conditions as the books. Various classes are maintained under the supervision of special committees: Men's Life, Women's Life, Illustration and Composition, and Portrait.

During the coming season there will be inaugurated an annual exhibition, entitled The New Gallery, which will be held under the auspices of the Boston Art Students' Association at Copley Hall from November 21 to December 18, 1900. Open every week day from 9 A. M. to 5 P. M., except Monday, when it is closed until noon; on Sundays it is open from 1 to 5 P. M. Admission daily twenty-five cents, except Saturday and Sunday, when it is free.

The report for the year ending December 31, 1899, owing to recent bequests to the Museum, shows for the first time in its history a small surplus after payment of current expenses. The total admissions were 225,318, an increase of 23,113 over the previous year; there was also a slight increase in annual subscriptions.

The following sums were received from bequests during the year: Executors of the will of Mrs. Julia B. H. James, in addition to $146,500 previously paid, $17,154.21; Mrs. Caroline S. Guild, $9,250; Robert C. Billings, $100,000 to the Museum and a like amount to the School of Drawing and Painting, if so much should remain after payment of other legacies; Alexander Moseley, real estate valued at $145,000, subject to two life interests; James W. Paige, $30,000 upon condition that $10,000 be added thereto, to constitute a fund of which the income should be used for sending pupils of the School of Drawing and Painting to study art in Europe for a period of two years. A committee of the scholars, aided by friends of the School, obtained the required amount, and the sum of $40,321.34 is held by the Treasurer. The first pupil under this trust, Lucy A. Flannigan, was sent out in the autumn of 1899. The next award will be made in the spring of 1901.

Owing to the crowded condition of the Museum and the immediate necessity for more space, the question of building on the vacant land adjoining the Museum or upon the site purchased upon the Fenway and running through to Huntington Avenue, was under discussion. This property, the total area of which is 556,000 square feet, was purchased by the Trustees at a cost of $703,000, a mortgage loan being effected for $415,000, and the balance of the purchase money being furnished by temporarily borrowing from the unrestricted fund.

Among the important acquisitions of the Museum during 1899 were: Henry L. Pierce Fund—"The Slave Ship," oil painting by J. M. Turner; for the Department of Classical Antiquities, valuable sculptures in marble and stone, bronzes, vases, gems (including 19 from the Marlborough Collection, among which was the cameo "Nuptials of Eros and Psyche"), jewelry and glass.

Wm. Wilkins Warren Fund—"The Lookout-All's Well," oil painting, by Winslow Homer, and five water colors by the same artist.

Parker collection, and "The Madonna in Engraving" in the Print Department; water colors of Japanese subjects by Yoshida and Nakagawa, and a collection of ancient glass bought at the Hoffman sale in 1899. #### ADDRESS DELIVERED BY KARL BITTER BEFORE THE NATIONAL SCULPTURE SOCIETY.

It is my opinion that an artistic decoration in any case should have a clear, distinct, and well defined meaning; that the subjects should be selected with great care, and even before questions of manner of rendering are considered. This is particularly desirable in an instance of such importance as this exhibition. The exhibits are housed in buildings, which serve not simply as shelters, but are in themselves examples of the conditions of our people and our times. They are intended to be of an educating influence, in a measure perhaps as great as the exhibits themselves. Their artistic attributes may be considered as the phraseology of the sermon that is to be delivered. In order to make this sermon effective, its scope and principal lines are questions of primary importance.

Happily, in our case, the grouping of the buildings suggests those principal lines. We observe that to the left, on the esplanade, buildings are situated containing, in a measure, the examples of our natural resources. We find there a forestry, a mining, a horticultural building. We show with pride the natural wealth of our continent; we will impress the visitor with the magnitude and abundance of the trees of our forests, their great varieties; we point to the unparalleled deposits of coal and iron, etc. All things that only nature can provide and not man. These facts, and the resulting thoughts of pride and gratitude to nature should be crystallized in the things that form the frame of our exhibits. The simple, cold fact demonstrated inside of the buildings should find an ideal and elevating expression in the paintings and sculptures about the buildings.

The other side of the Esplanade, surrounded principally by Government buildings, will invite to speak of our people and our institutions. We are aware that the natural wealth of the country means comfort and wealth to the people, only if they are the right kind, and their institutions such as to insure liberal and peaceful enjoyment of such wealth. The institutions of our country form a worthy parable to our resources. Again, the expressions in color and form must give inspiration to the mind, and assist reason that has been called upon by the contents of the buildings. Not a mere shell, beautiful and glittering, but empty inside, is the work that the painter and sculptor will have to give us here, and not here and there a spark of an idea, but step by step and link by link, should our work lead the impressive mind to grasp one big idea and ignite a fire of lasting true enthusiasm.

In distinct separation from the above two groups, we find another group of buildings devoted to Machinery and Transportation, Electricity, Manufacture and Liberal Arts, etc. What is shown therein is neither a direct product of nature nor attributable to any institutions, but solely to the genius of man, though on the basis of what material nature has given him, and what freedom the institutions of his country will allow him. Those buildings, and the Court of the Cascades, as well as the Mall, around which they are located, should be devoted to the allegorization of that subject. There is the wheel of progress, advancement and civilization, that is revolved and moved by the mighty brain and the sturdy arms of the nation. Our inventive, industrious and ingenious qualities will be the motive for the painter and sculptor.

Next in order is the group of buildings surrounding the Plaza. We find the gateways on one side to the Stadium, on the other to Vanity Fair. We have left the practical side of life, and come to the more poetical, which will show us the temperament of the people, their games and sports, and their varied amusements. Again the subjects for decorations suggest themselves, and it is not necessary to point them out, but I will also here repeat that not the occasional reference to sport or stage or dance, will suffice, or the repetition of the same idea in different forms, but that all decorations in those surroundings together should reflect in an ideal light, and in elaborate and distinct form the characteristics of the people.

In many respects the most prominent feature at the exhibition is the Electrical Tower and its Colonnade. The display of water about this Tower suggests the following treatment of its sculptural and pictorial effects; Buffalo's importance, growth and prosperity are chiefly due to the Great Lake System and the Water Ways on which it is located; its commerce and wealth are a direct offspring of the "Great Waters," as the Indians called them. They connect this city with the many other cities that dot the shores of those big inland lakes. That will lead us to an allegorization of the "Great Waters" expressed already in the display of Cascades and Fountains, but now assisted by groups, in which reference is made to the gigantic role which the lakes, the rivers, the Erie canal and the eleven railroads play in inland commerce. Statues of the early navigators and explorers who travelled over those waterways find a place there.

The principal points remain, that is the Approach and the Bridge; for the former, it has been suggested to have an Arch as the Entrance feature, followed by groups or statues representing the various countries that take part in the Exposition. The Bridge, as perhaps the most ornate feature of the Exposition, is given over to an apotheosis of the United States, an allegorization of National pride.

To recapitulate shortly, in the lines laid down for artistic decorations, we find first a welcome in the Arch, an introduction by the representations of the countries, whose exhibits are shown, ending by the representation of the host as expressed on the Bridge. Then to the left are our natural resources, to the right our people and their institutions. We next speak of our qualities and abilities, our industry and thrift. Before us is the Electrical Tower, showing the Great Waters and referring to commerce and inland intercourse, and to wind it up, the Plaza, expressing the temperament and the physis side of our people.

The following list gives the most important groups in connection with the different buildings and the artists who are executing them:

upon all works offered for the exhibition and to assist the Director in locating and securing the finest examples of the work of American artists.

The scope of the exhibition comprehends the representation of the Pan-American countries and colonies, such as Canada, Mexico, and the Central and South American states. Each will have its separate wall or floor space apart from the galleries occupied by the United States.

The system of award will conform to the regulations of the Pan-American Exposition, and will be made by a jury, which will be composed of professional artists, whose position in their respective fields of art will be such as to insure the fairest and best results possible.

The exhibition as planned at present will include only the works of contemporary artists and the period to be covered will be the twenty-five years from 1876 to 1901. Special effort will be made to secure the most notable works produced in the past decade, including the works of artists recently deceased.

The Museum is open to the public every week day from 9 A. M. to 5 P. M. and Sundays 1 to 5 P. M. Admission is free to members and their families at all times and free to all on Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday; on other days the admission is twenty-five cents.

The year ending June 1, 1900, shows the total expense of the Museum, School and Library to have been $88,176.35; total receipts, $79,976.47; deficit, $8,199.88. Included in the above receipts are those of the Art School ($38,672.56), which was self-supporting.

The membership (honorary, governing, annual and life) numbers 2,477, a gain of 14. The galleries have been open every day; 199 pay days, 166 free days; the total attendance, 577,421.

Work is now in progress on the immense gallery for architectural casts and sculpture. This will be 225 feet in length by 62 feet in width, and with the picture galleries above it will practically complete the exhibition space of the Institute.

The new library building is also in course of construction.

Gifts and Purchases.

The most important gift of the year was that of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel M. Nickerson, of a large collection of Japanese, Chinese and East Indian objects of art, and a collection of modern paintings. The excellent collection of jades, agates and crystals, numbers 275 specimens, and there are also many beautiful bronzes, lacquers and cloisonnés and Japanese and Chinese prints and water colors. Two rooms were artistically decorated under the supervision of Mr. and Mrs. Nickerson to fittingly house their collection.

Several other bequests and gifts of great value have been received. Mrs. Catherine M. White, of Evanston, Ill., bequeathed about $100,000—money sufficient for three scholarships, and several pictures and art objects. Sidney A. Kent bequeathed the interest of $50,000 to the Institute.

Martin A. Ryerson and Charles L. Hutchinson, gift—eighteen silver and bronze medals by Roty and Chaplain.

Daniel C. French, gift—Two copies of the Dewey medal.

Edward E. Ayer, gift—Two fragments of frescoes, antique Roman.

A. M. Barnhart, gift—Plaster group, "I Feel Two Natures Struggling Within Me," by George G. Barnard.

Mrs. White, bequest—"Landscape," by William Hart; "Still Life," by C. P. Ream.

Purchase—Plaster casts, "The Puritan," by J. Q. A. Ward; "The Student," by J. Q. A. Ward; "The Indian Hunter," by C. E. Dallin.

Stickney bequest, purchased—Oil painting by J. A. MacNeill Whistler, "Battersea."

Mrs. Cyrus H. McCormick, gift—Three copper-plate engravings from Vatican panels, by Raphael.

Within the last year the library has made a decided advance in growth and usefulness. A large increase in accessions amounting to 269 volumes by gift and purchase, rather crowds the present quarters. Thirty-two art magazines are subscribed for.

Lectures.

There have altogether been 155 lectures during the past year, divided as follows: Seventy-nine to members and students, 11 musicales open to members and students, 41 school lectures, and 24 lectures and meetings of other art societies. Gunsaulus and Jean Francois Raffaelli.

During the coming year, in addition to the usual extended lecture courses upon painting, sculpture, architecture and decorative art by

The Commission shall consist of the mayor of said city, the chief officer of the principal art institute, the president of the park board and three other members, a painter, a sculptor and an architect, to be appointed by the mayor. The work of the Society consists chiefly in raising funds for the purchase of pictures and casts to be placed in the Public Schools of Chicago. About 400 of the best reproductions (carbons) from the great masters have been so placed, and in addition a special loan collection, mostly original paintings, has been moved from school to school, remaining six months in each.

Mrs. LOUISE D. SHERMAN,

Mrs. M. J. R. TYLER,
Secretary.

LUCY FITCH PERKINS, Chairman Art and Literature Department.

The Art Department decided to undertake as its permanent work such effort toward beautifying Chicago as seemed from time to time possible and practicable. As a first step in this direction, it availed itself of the opportunity offered by the "Competition for the Improvement of a Chicago Park" held by the Chicago Architectural Club in December, 1899. The space was the triangular park bounded by North State and Rush Streets; $1,000 was to be expended on the architectural feature and the city would co-operate by maintaining such shrubbery, etc., as might be necessary to complete the idea. The Woman's Club has used its efforts to have the work carried out, and it is the belief that the success of this effort toward the establishment and maintenance of beautiful small parks will be but the first step toward similar work in more densely populated districts.

The League was represented by a committee at the Convention of the American Park and Outdoor Art Association, which met in Chicago in June, and the Secretary, Peter B. Wight, made one of the welcoming addresses.

The objects of the League are to promote in every practicable way the beautifying of the streets, public buildings and places of Chicago, and to stimulate civic pride in the care and improvement of private property. Its services have been sought for in many directions, the most important up to the present being an invitation from the Trustees of the Sanitary District of Chicago that the League assist its engineers in designing seven new bridges to be erected over the Chicago River. This work has been undertaken under the direction of a committee appointed by President MacVeagh, consisting of the two architects, Peter B. Wight and Martin Roche.

The above officers were elected at the Annual Meeting, held March 5, 1900, when the report of the Trustees for 1899 was read. This shows that the Museum has received an additional endowment of $10,000, given by Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Ingalls in memory of their daughter, the income to be devoted to the aid of students in the Art Academy. The gross income was $38,660.72 and expenditures for administration $39,170.27, the difference representing an encroachment of $410.55 on the surplus. This was in the Museum department, where the deficit in 1898 was $2,482.34.

The total attendance was 34,723, of which 16,982 were paid admissions. The number of members for the year was 134, a loss of 7 compared with 1898. Of the funds thus collected $900 was spent in the purchase of two paintings, "Woman Drying Her Hair," by Joseph DeCamp, and "Pont Royal," by Childe Hassam. The unexpended balance in this purchase fund on January 1, 1900, was $960.

Among the gifts of the year were: Oil painting by Frank Duveneck and three examples of the work of J. Frank Currier, given by Frank Duveneck; 10 pieces of ancient Phoenician glass added by Mr. A. T. #### PERKINS FINE ARTS BUILDING, Colorado College, Colorado Springs, Colo.

This hall was built largely from a legacy to the Colorado College by the late Mr. Perkins. The Conservatory of Music, under the direction of Mr. Ruben Goldmark, had quite outgrown its old quarters, and the art classes of the College were also badly hampered for room. The building is 90 feet long and 50 feet wide. There is a spacious entrance hall, and on the ground floor is a large auditorium capable of seating 600 people. There is a fine organ, the gift of Miss Cheney, of Wellesley, Mass., and a suitable stage. On the second floor are several studios, also music and practice rooms, besides a well-lighted art gallery.

On February 7, 1900, a large and interested audience gathered at the opening of the first exhibition of pictures in the Perkins Fine Arts Hall (see illustrations). This exhibition consisted of 160 pictures, in oil, water colors and pastels, being entirely the work of some twenty local artists. Eight thousand people passed through the Exhibition in ten days.

It being ascertained that Mr. Wm. T. Slocum, President of the College, intended that the picture gallery should be the home of a permanent collection, Mr. Louis R. Ehrich purchased one of Leslie J. Skelton's pictures from the walls of the Exhibition and presented it to the College as a nucleus for their permanent collection. A painting by the French landscapist, Iwill, has also been secured.

The summary of all is to assist self-culture in a practical and ethical way.

Among the societies represented in the membership of the League are: The City Improvement Society, Woman's Club, Colorado Chapter of the A. I. PUBLIC SCHOOL ART LEAGUES.

Denver, Colo.

There are ten of these Leagues in the various school districts, with a membership of about 1,000. Their object is to decorate the schools with works of art and to encourage an interest in art matters. An entertainment was given November 19, 1898, by the Committee on Pictures for the Public Schools, of the Woman's Club of Denver, and one-half of the net returns was given to the six School Art Leagues then in existence. This way each school had $62 to spend for photographs and casts as a beginning. Altogether, the Leagues have spent $1,800 in decorating the schools of Denver; 18 rooms have been completed and 30 are in course of decoration.

WOMAN'S CLUB OF DENVER.*Mrs. LUTHER M. GODDARD, 2658 Humboldt St., Denver, Colo.,

Chairman Department of Art and Literature.

Mrs. THOMAS M. PATTERSON, 1075 Pennsylvania Ave., Denver, Colo., Chairman Committee on Pictures for Public Schools.

The Department of Art and Literature conducts an art class, but its most important work is that of the Committee on Pictures for Public Schools. In the four years of its existence this committee has spent $1,900 in placing 274 pictures, casts and pieces of pottery in the schools of Denver. This is in addition to the money spent by the School Art Leagues. The money has been raised in several ways, the nest egg being a small surplus from a department appropriation which was turned over to the Committee at the close of the season of 1894-95. The next season a small circulating gallery was formed by pictures presented by interested friends of the schools; a musical and tea netted $136 in 1896-97; the proprietor of the Rocky Mountain News, a daily paper, gave the management of the Christmas edition of 1897 into the hands of the Committee and turned over to them the sum received for the day's issue which was in excess of that received from the Christmas edition of the previous year, which amounted to $893; the "Living Pictures" given with the co-operation of the Art School Leagues in November, 1898, brought in $750 after paying all expenses, and donations of money were received from time to time.

It has been the policy of the Committee to devote one-third of all amounts collected to the purchase of original paintings for the Club Reading Room, and in this way they have bought "A Colorado Sunset," by Harvey Young, partly a gift from the artist; "Sea View," by Richards, and others.

WM. ST. JOHN HARPER, Managing Director.

The League was founded in 1875 by a group of students who were determined that the best possible art education should be put within reach of the artists and students of New York, and in May, 1900, it celebrated its twenty-fifth anniversary by an exhibition of the work of its members, students and instructors in the galleries of the American Fine Arts Building. The Annual Dinner, taking place May 8, 1900, was of exceptional interest, and a silver loving cup was presented to the League by Mr. J. Sanford Saltus.

Besides the regular monthly exhibition of school work, the following exhibitions were held in the rooms of the League during the season: Nov. 25 to Dec. 27, Drawings by Kenyon Cox; Jan. 22 to Feb. 5, Paintings by Frank T. Hutchens; March 8 to 14, work by Augustus St. Gaudens and Louis Loeb; March 22 to 28, work by Bryson Burroughs and Edith Woodman Burroughs.

The Annual Meeting was held April 18, when the above officers were elected. The membership of the League is limited to artists and students who intend to make art their profession, but the classes are open to all who show the required proficiency. (See details in the tabulated lists of art schools.)

With the aim of broadening the scope of its instruction and rendering its course of study of more immediate practical utility to a large class of students, the League has invited the co-operation of the leading art institutions of New York. The societies which have appointed Advisory Committees are the National Sculpture Society, the Architectural League of New York, the New York Chapter of the A. I. A. and the National Society of Mural Painters. Karl Bitter and Charles R. Lamb have been appointed on the committee to represent the Sculpture Society.

At the Paris Exposition no section had been set aside for Art Schools, but, through the courtesy of the Department of Education, a cabinet was assigned to the League. By using a wing frame and portfolios, original work from all classes and photographs of the larger work were displayed. A gold medal was awarded to the Art Students' League of New York in the Department of Art Education.

The Department of Public Education and Fine Arts of France have requested that the entire exhibit of the Art Students' League of New York be placed in the "Musée Pédagogique" of Paris, which is under the control of the Ministry.

Travelling Exhibitions of work done in the League will be arranged for, and schools or art clubs desiring to have such work for exhibition should correspond with the Secretary.

The next annual Meeting will be held April 17, 1901; the Annual Exhibition, May 10 to 12, and the Annual Dinner, May 11.

Ground was broken for the Museum in Institute Park, near Prospect Park, on Sept. 14, 1895, and the first section was ready for occupancy in May, 1897, and was dedicated on Oct. 7 of that year. The middle section of the Museum is now in course of construction, the corner stone having been laid on June 6, 1900.

The Loan Collection was continued throughout the winter of 1899-1900, and additions are constantly being made. The Museum is open free to the public from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M. on Wednesdays, Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays and on all legal holidays except Sundays; also on Thursday and Friday evenings from 7.30 to 9.45 P. M., and Sundays from 2 to 6 P. M. Admission free on Mondays and Tuesdays from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M., twenty-five cents.

The "Tissot Collection of Paintings, Illustrating the Life of Christ," was purchased for $60,000, the amount having been raised by subscription. They will be placed in the middle section of the Museum, and were shown in Brooklyn from March 28 to April 14, 1900, and New York from April 19 to May 8.

Among the important gifts in this department was the bequest of $15,000 from the late Joseph C. Hoagland.

Besides the lectures already mentioned there was a course of six on "Christian Art as Represented in the Paintings of the Life of Christ by the Great Masters," by the Rev. Henry G. Spaulding of Boston; six on the "Art Treasures of Paris." Miss Louise Both-Hendriksen gave six on "Painting in Holland," and the same number on "French Painting." Prof. Edward H. Griggs delivered six on "Italian Cities and Their Gift to Civilization," and a course of thirty lectures was delivered by Prof. Goodyear on Saturday afternoons on "Greek and Roman Art." All the lectures were illustrated.

Painting.

Hon. Frank Squier,
President.

Miss M. E. Robinson,
Secretary.

The department of painting is specially interested in providing the best means for art instruction, and to this end has co-operated with the Brooklyn Art Association in maintaining the Evening Art Classes and the Brooklyn Art School. The Institute is the owner of the majority of the stock of the Art Association, and the Tenth Annual Exhibition of Paintings was held at the Art Galleries, 175 Montague St. from Feb. 3 to 24, 1900, in conjunction with the Brooklyn Art Association. The Seventh Exhibition of the work of the Art School was held from May 12 to 19, 1900. The lectures in this department have already been referred to.

Sculpture.

Six lectures on "Modern Sculpture" were delivered by the Rev. Frederick Hovey Allen during November and December, 1899, and during March and April there were six lectures on "French Sculpture."

The library contains 24,278 volumes, the art department having 135.

The above officers were elected at the Annual meeting held Jan. 13, 1900. The Association was organized in 1847, and its membership consists of artists, authors and professional men, about one-tenth of the members being artists. Exhibitions open to members are held monthly in the season.

COOPER UNION.

Third Ave. and Eighth St., Manhattan, New York.

	EDWARD COOPER, President.
ABRAM S. HEWITT,	EDWARD R. HEWITT,
Secretary.	Treasurer.

The forty-first Annual Report of the Trustees, dated May 31, 1900, shows that Cooper Union was made residuary legatee of the estate of John Halstead, who died in May, 1899, subject to the life tenancy of Mrs. Hannah C. Wibert. It is estimated that the estate will ultimately yield a fund somewhere between $200,000 and $300,000.

A gift of $300,000 from Andrew Carnegie in December, 1899, will yield an income of $15,000 per year, and by an arrangement between Mr. Carnegie, Mr. Edward Cooper and Mr. A. S. Hewitt an additional income of $10,000 will be added to it, so that Cooper Union may extend the work of instruction carried on at night into the day, and thus complete the purposes of the founder.

The duration of the classes has been extended from six to eight months; the Chemical Laboratory will now accommodate 100 pupils instead of 44; the Physical Laboratory will be available for 150 students, and both will be open day and night.

The Art Department, heretofore conducted at night, as well as the Woman's Art School, conducted during the day, has been carried on with reference mainly to such instruction as will enable the pupils to gain a livelihood in artistic pursuits. During the past few years the subject of decoration has come into great prominence, and skilled workmen are required for this purpose. With this object in view the Museum was started about five years ago, and has now reached such a development as to make it possible to establish what may be termed an Art Laboratory, in which the work will be directed to the application of art to the purposes of decoration.

When the three laboratories have reached their full development the entire building will be necessary. Arrangements have already been made for the Form and Modelling Classes to occupy the largest store fronting on Astor Place. The intention is to maintain a free school primarily for the education of workmen, and not a professional institution. The Trustees expect, however, that the proposed instruction by day will be used mainly by the graduates of the High Schools and Cooper Union will thus be made to supplement the courses of the High Schools, not to replace them, and become a means of admission to the higher instruction offered by Columbia University.

(For details of the Art Schools see tabulated list of schools.)

The Annual Report presented May 31, 1900, showed that 958 people had visited the Museum during the year, an increase of 58 over the previous season, and in addition 32 persons have actually worked there. Visitors having different professions connected with the arts increased from 27 the previous year, to 45 professions this year.

The library now contains 322 Encyclopaedic Scrap Books, which is 193 more than last year and card catalogues of the Scrap Books and Reference Books are being arranged according to subjects, artists and places. There are six new cases showing textile fabrics arranged in chronological order. In pursuance of the plan of forming a collection of pictures of a purely decorative character, several examples have been added to the North Gallery, notably a design attributed to Pietro da Cortona (1596-1669) presented by Mr. George A. Hearn; the loan of a project for a ceiling, "The Fall of Phaeton," painted by James Ward (1769-1859); and a design for Lord Nelson's tomb by Benjamin West (1736-1820); a project for wall and ceiling decoration by Sir James Thornhill (1676-1734), and a collection of designs for the decoration of sedan chairs in the Adams style. The two latter objects came from the Augustin Daly sale and were presented by Mrs. Charles B. Alexander.

The collection of furniture has been greatly increased through purchases made with the money presented by Mr. Geo. A. Hearn. Mr. Geo. A. Glaenzer gave a rare piece of 17th century Italian brocade and added to his collection of casts; some fine engravings were presented by Mr. John L. Cadwalader; the collection of old frames and wood carvings has been nearly doubled by loans and gifts, and a collection of antique jewelry has lately been loaned. These are only the more important additions. There have been many gifts to the Scrap Books and Reference Library and also some gifts of money.

The number of visitors during 1899 was 540,060, being an excess of 28,662 over the previous year, notwithstanding the inconvenience caused by the closing of the 82d Street entrance during the construction of the new wing. The total number of Annual Members was 1,973.

A large number of schools from the city and out of town have visited the Museum; the number of art students and copyists is increasing steadily; there were 571 permits issued to copyists in the department of painting, 496 in the department of sculpture and 50 in the department of casts.

The Saturday lectures given in conjunction with Columbia University during the season of 1899-1900 were as follows: Prof. Charles Sprague Smith, December 2, "The Forest of Fontainebleau"; December 9, "Millet"; December 16, "Corot"; December 23, "Rousseau"; December 30, "Barye." On February 14, 1900, a bill was signed by Governor Roosevelt at Albany authorizing the city of New York to expend $200,000 for equipping and furnishing the east extension of the Metropolitan Museum. (See illustration.)

The Jacob H. Lazarus Scholarship, payable by the Treasurer of the Museum, was awarded in 1899 to Mr. Andrew T. Schwartz (for particulars see P. 23, Vol. II.).

Additions to the Library during 1899 consisted of 199 volumes purchased and 108 presented, making a total on December 31, 1899, of 5,669 bound volumes, 156 portfolios and 553 unbound reports, catalogues, etc. The number of periodicals taken is 36, there being 5 American, 11 English, 5 French, 12 German, 1 Greek, 1 Italian and 1 Japanese.

Incorporated in the year 1898, the National Arts Club prepared its present quarters at No. 37 West 34th Street in the summer of 1899 and opened its gallery in October of that year. Its success was so marked that before spring it was apparent that a single building with gallery would not be sufficient; the Club therefore took a lease of the adjoining house, No. 39 West 34th Street, built in the rear of this house another gallery adjoining the first and extended its restaurant, reading rooms, library and billiard room into the adjoining building, while using the upper stories for bedrooms for the use of non-resident members.

During the first season of its active existence the Club fulfilled its promise, by holding no less than ten exhibitions, as will be seen by the following calendar:

The National Arts Club is engaged in helping to advance the fine and industrial arts of the United States by means of frequent exhibitions, by aiding existing art organizations and opening new lines of endeavor for the individual artist; it brings together artists and art patrons and facilitates the meeting of art lovers who live in other cities of the Union with residents of New York. It aids all good causes in art, such as the embellishment of cities, capitols and other public buildings. Its house is centrally located, and the restaurant, which is open to men and women daily from noon to midnight, is much used for lunch and supper parties as well as for dinners. Wednesday has been appointed as the special club evening. Non-resident members can secure bedrooms at from one dollar to two and a half dollars a night. The library makes a specialty of art books and art periodicals. There are separate lounging rooms for ladies. Resident members pay fifty dollars per annum, non-resident twenty-five. Life members make one contribution of one thousand dollars, patrons one of five thousand dollars. Members are not liable for any debts of the Club.

The coming season will open with an Exhibition of Objects of Industrial Art, on November 28, 1900.

The last Annual Meeting was held May 1, 1900, when the above officers were elected. The next Annual Meeting will be held on May 7, 1901.

The most important work under the supervision of the Society completed during the year was the decoration of the Appellate Court of the City of New York, which was opened with a Private View on December 20, 1899. A programme for the decoration of the building was prepared by the Committee, approved by the Society and adopted by the architect, James Brown Lord, and the Building Committee. The decorations in the hall are confined to the frieze; the north wall, opposite the entrance, is by H. Siddons Mowbray, and represents "The Transmission of Law"; the west wall (see illustration) is by Willard Metcalf, the subject being "Justice"; the same artist continuing on the adjoining south wall "The Banishment of Discord"; the east wall also represents "Justice," and is by Robert Reid; the two lunettes between the entrance are by C. Y. Turner, and represent "Law and Equity." In the court room the three panels in the center of the east wall (see illustration) are, to the left, "Justice," by Edward E. Simmons; in the center, "Wisdom," by H. O. Walker, and to the right, "Power of the Law," by E. H. Blashfield. The east wall over the Judges' Dais is decorated by Kenyon Cox in five panels, representing "Peace," "Commerce," "Plenty Rewarding Virtue," "Statute Law" and

"Common Law." The frieze of the north and south wall is cut up into a number of panels of different sizes, in which Joseph Lauber has painted figures personifying the "Virtues."

The building, situated at Madison Avenue and 25th Street, is decorated on the exterior (see illustration) with a number of pieces of sculpture. The group in the pediment on the street side, representing the "Triumph of the Law" the work of Charles H. Niehaus, is surmounted by a group representing "Justice," by Daniel C. French. The group on the Madison Avenue side, by Karl Bitter, represents "Peace," while the caryatides on this side, representing the four seasons, are by Thomas Shields Clarke. The 25th Street side has, in addition, four allegorical figures by Schwartzott of "Morning," "Noon," "Evening," and "Night," and on either side of the entrance are seated figures of "Force" and "Wisdom," by F. Wellington Ruckstuhl (see illustration), while the whole building is surmounted by ten marble statues of ancient lawgivers.

An exhibition of photographs of completed mural work in America was opened under the auspices of the Society of Mural Painters, at the National Arts Club, in New York, on January 13, 1900, and on the 16th a dinner was given by the Society to the members of the Municipal Art Society of Baltimore, when the subject of the decoration of the new courts of Baltimore was discussed. The collection of photographs was also shown in Albany, St. Louis, Philadelphia and Baltimore, where great interest was taken in the wonderful progress made in the field of Mural Painters by the artists of the United States.

NEW YORK PUBLIC LIBRARY.

Astor, Lenox and Tilden Foundations.

F. WEITENKAMPF, Curator Print Department.

The collection of paintings and prints is at present at the Lenox Building, Fifth Avenue and 70th Street, and is open free to the public daily, except Sundays, from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

At a meeting of the Board of Trustees held December 13, 1899, it was decided to establish a Department of Prints, and Samuel P. Avery, one of the Trustees, presented, on behalf of John Durand, more than 300 engravings by Asher B. Durand. In April Mr. Samuel P. Avery presented to the Library his collection of over 17,000 prints, containing complete sets of works of many of the most noted etchers and engravers. Mrs. F. O. Darley presented over a hundred engravings, after her husband's designs. Other collections which have found a place in the Print Department are the Duyckinck, Emmet, Lenox, Tilden, etc.

Besides its artistic value, the collection contains many pieces in which the subject is of paramount interest, such as portraits, historical scenes, views, costumes, etc. Exhibitions are held from time to time; in April and May, 1900, a set of Turner's "Liber Studiorum" was on view, and a collection of French caricatures and posters relating to the Franco-German war was shown from June to October. Drawings by Japanese artists were exhibited at the Astor Library Building, the collection being the gift of Mrs. Henry Draper, who has presented a number of noteworthy additions to the Print Department.

JAMES B. T. DEMAREST,
Treasurer.

LUELLA A. PALMER,
Secretary,
235 E. 18th St., Manhattan.

The Club, composed largely of the teachers in the public schools of New York City, was organized in February, 1900, for the purpose of promoting the interests of art instruction in the public schools, to further the aesthetic culture of its members, to cultivate among them a spirit of mutual sympathy and aid, through professional and social intercourse, and to serve as a medium through which information on art, its value, its teachings and its practice in the schools, can be given to the teachers of the city at large, in public lectures under the auspices of the Club. The Club thus stands as a valuable intermediary between the audience and the speaker "with a message;" the Club arranges the meeting, defrays all expenses and invites all interested. There are at present 198 active members, who are engaged in teaching or supervising in the public schools of the city; four associates, other persons interested in the aims of the Club. There are also a number of honorary members, who form an Advisory Committee, known as the Council, of which the President is the Chairman.

Regular meetings are held on the first Friday of October, December, March and May, with additional special meetings. The calendar for 1900 was as follows: March 2, address on "Ruskin," by Prof. Chubb; April 7, special meeting at the Students' Club, address on "Music" by Prof. Homer N. Bartlett; April 21, public meeting at Board of Education Building, when James L. Hughes, Superintendent of Schools in Toronto, Canada, spoke on "Art in the Public Schools"; May 4, Prof. Leigh Hunt gave an illustrated address on "Etching"; a public course of lectures on "Picture Study" was given at Normal College by Dr. James P. Haney, Supervisor of Manual Training in Manhattan and Bronx.

For the season of 1900-1901 the following lectures have been planned: October 5, "What Goes to Make a Building Architecturally Fine," by Mr. Charles W. Stoughton; "Mural Decoration in Our City Halls," "The Central Park and Its Problems in Landscape Gardening," "Household Decoration," "Picture Galleries." There will be an exhibition of school work and of drawings by members of the Club at each regular meeting.

The purpose of the Association is to bring before the public the work of American women resident temporarily or permanently in Paris. All American women working in Paris are expected to co-operate, and enthusiasm and fellowship among artists and students is greatly promoted by the organization. The liberality of Mrs. Whitelaw Reid has contributed greatly to its success. Officers are elected at a general meeting, held usually in October, at which time the committees are also selected.

The feature of the year's work is the Annual Exhibition, which has always been held in the American Students' Club. The Sixth Annual Exhibition was held from December 9 to 16, 1899, when the jury consisted of Augustus St. Gaudens, Alexander Harrison, Edward Ertz and John Alexander.

The new gallery is to be erected on Lemon Hill, in accordance with the designs accepted in 1895 after a competition in which $15,000 was awarded in four prizes. The report of the Director of the Museum for the year ending May 31, 1900, states that the attendance during 1899 was 337,409, the greater portion of the visitors coming to Memorial Hall on Sunday afternoons.

The following are among the more important acquisitions: The department of American and Anglo-American pottery has been largely added to by purchase and gift, including ten pieces of slipware; a collection of old Chinese china and bronzes (152 pieces) has been bequeathed by the late Edward S. Clarke; a collection of about 500 photographs, many of them colored by hand, has been presented by Mrs. E. J. Bartol; three white marble statues on colored marble pedestals have been presented anonymously, they are "Nydia" and "Isaac" by Randolph Rogers and "Captivity" by J. Henry Haseltine.

There have been several gifts to the library and some purchases. The total number of volumes is 1,857.

School of Industrial Art.

(For particulars regarding instruction see tabulated list of schools.)

The Principal's report mentions the following lectures, outside of those in connection with the regular courses, as having been given during the year: Six on "Heraldry" by Prof. Charles E. Dana, three on "Sculpture" by Truman H. Bartlett and one on "Venezuela and its People" by Edward H. Sanborn.

An addition to the School Building was made by the fitting up and furnishing of a Students' Club Room for the use of all male students, for which the School is indebted to the Associate Committee of Women. The organization of an athletic association among the students has resulted in building a track and providing facilities for outdoor practice and sports on the grounds of the School.

The number of benefactions indicate the interest taken in the School. They include additions to the library, machinery, and supplies.

Associate Committee of Women.

The report of the President, Mrs. E. D. Gillespie, shows that $3,337 was collected by the Committee to assist the School, which, owing to the state appropriation having been cut down one-half, was greatly in need of funds. Through the influence of Mrs. Frank K. Hipple and Miss Leach and with the assistance of the students a large room in the present basement was remodeled, where the pupils can find rest and recreation. This has brought about closer fellowship among the pupils.

A part of the $100 placed each year at the disposal of the Committee by Mrs. Wm. L. Elkins was used to secure for exhibition some of the Rookwood Pottery which was later sent to the Paris Exposition.

Museum.

The Free Museum of Science and Art was opened December 20, 1899, when a bronze bust of Dr. Pepper, the gift of friends, was unveiled. Mrs. Frances Sergeant Pepper presented to the University $50,000 as a fund to carry on the work started by her husband, the late Dr. Pepper, who began the movement to create the Museum in 1889 while he was Provost of the University of Pennsylvania. The building, designed by Wilson Eyre, is of red brick, the frontage on the street being very simple, while one of the chief features is the inner court with a fountain.

The winner of the John Stewardson Scholarship of the University in the Department of Architecture for 1900 was Alfred Morton Githens, who dealt with a handsome entrance to Fairmount Park from Spring Garden Street. T Square Club Memberships won by Louis Magaziner and Ira W. Hoover. (For particulars regarding the instruction see tabulated reports of schools.)

The Art Society, founded in 1873, has for its purposes, first, the promotion of artistic taste and culture in the community; second, social enjoyment with instructive entertainments. The achievements of the Society, which had its culmination in the Carnegie Art Galleries and Pittsburgh Orchestra, is an indication of the manner in which the Society has thus far met its self-imposed obligations.

One of the most interesting exhibitions in the history of the Society was the Portrait Exhibition held at the Carnegie Art Galleries during four weeks of February and March, 1900, at which there were fully 5,000 visitors.

It is quite likely that an Art Exhibition will be held in the spring of 1901. The lectures for the season of 1900-1901 include one on "Gothic Cathedrals of England" by Dr. G. W. Allyn, while other events are musical and literary. The annual dues of $10 secures to every member the privileges of a given season with one companion.

The Fourth Founder's Day was celebrated on November 2, 1899, at which time the Annual Exhibition was opened and the pictures remained on view until January 1, 1900.

Extracts from the Secretary's report: There is no better way to illustrate the generous purposes of the Founder of Carnegie Institute than to say that he has authorized the original building, which cost $820,000, to be enlarged upon plans which will cost $1,750,000. The scheme of administration provides that the Music Hall and the Library are supported by appropriations from the City of Pittsburgh, while the Art Gallery and the Museum are maintained by a special endowment from Mr. Carnegie of one million dollars. Ten important paintings were purchased during 1899, and two were presented to the Institute. One of these is "Matins à la Grande Chartreuse," painted and presented by Theobald Chartran; the other is a portrait of the American painter, G. P. A. Healy, from his own brush, presented by Mr. C. C. Ruthrauff, of New York. Mr. Carnegie also presented to the Institute a bronze bust of Herbert Spencer, by Edward Onslow Ford.

Awards at Third Annual Exhibition: Gold Medal with $1,500 to Cecilia Beaux of Philadelphia for "Mother and Daughter" (see illustration); silver medal with $1,000 to Frank W. Benson of Salem, Mass., for "The Sisters;" bronze medal and $500 to André Dauchez of Paris for "The Boats;" honorable mention to Lucien Simon of Paris for "Portraits," and to J. H. THEO. HANFORD POND, President.

F. E. DODGE,

The aim of the Union, which was founded in 1899, is the protection of its members from the evil consequences of an unrestricted and ruinous competition; the promotion and encouragement of a more artistic quality of workmanship in all lines of art production, and the giving to these professions that independence, strength, and dignity which alone can be obtained through mutual assistance and co-operative effort. It is believed that the art workers of Providence are all desirous of doing good work, the best work possible, and that all they lack is opportunity.

The Union has commenced its work by the establishment of a fair scale of minimum prices in the line of newspaper illustration, drawings for advertising cuts, and all designs for catalogue or magazine embellishment.

The only requirements for membership are that the applicant shall prove himself a wage-earner in some line of artistic workmanship, either as a worker in wood, metal, jewelry, etc., or as a designer or illustrator.

THE ART LEAGUE OF ST. LOUIS,

President.

Mrs. E. B. LEIGH,
Treasurer.

Mrs. M. E. RILEY, Supv. of Drawing, Vice-President.

Mrs. AUGUSTUS SUMNER,
Secretary.

The League originated in November, 1895, as a section of the Wednesday Club and was formally organized as an independent society in May, 1897. Its objects are to increase interest in art; to teach by pictures and casts in school rooms what has been already accomplished in painting, sculpture and architecture; to furnish to teachers illustrative material, and to create a demand for beauty in everyday life. Twenty-five dollars or its equivalent in pictures will make the donor an honorary member of the League; annual subscription of one dollar will entitle the giver to associate membership.

During the five years of its existence the League has received and expended about $1,600, and besides the money many reproductions have been received and also a few plants for decorative use in downtown schools. In this period they have lent to the Public Schools 500 large framed pictures, 90 of which are entrusted to the care of the League by Mr. Halsey C. Ives, and one school room has been re-decorated. The collections go out in sets of ten, remain a given length of time in one school and are then transferred to another, which in turn sends its first ten to a third building. Four schools constitute a circuit. In vacation time the pictures go to reading rooms, clubs, and social settlements. With each collection is sent a typewritten bibliography and description.

An exhibition of new acquisitions was held from December 26, 1899, to January 4, 1900, in Noonan & Kocain's Gallery. At this time colored lithographs issued by the French Government and those approved by the Minister of Public Instruction were added to the collection.

All new acquisitions will be shown in a downtown art gallery during the Christmas holiday of 1900, and there will be an exhibition of the room of the new school house which is being decorated by the League. Here a frieze in low relief is being put all around the kindergarten room, same being made a part of the construction, and the walls are being tinted.

In April, 1899, the first portfolio collection of small mounted half-tones, photographs and wood engravings was placed in the Public Library. There are now about one thousand in this collection which is owned and controlled by the League. The portfolios are issued by the Librarian to teachers and students.

This annex was begun in May, 1899, and completed March, 1900, and bears the title of the Mary Frances Searles Art Gallery. It was officially opened with the Spring Exhibition of 390 works in oils, water colors, pastel, black and white, and sculpture. The attendance was 11,341; 27 pictures were sold for $5,842. A prominent characteristic of the exhibition lay in the fact that it represented the work of California artists, past and present.

Among the recent acquisitions to the Institute are the paintings by Julian Rix, William Harnett and William Keith, presented to the San Francisco Art Association by Mr. Collis P. Huntington a few months before his death. The heirs of the estate of the late Jacob C. Johnson have given to the Institute the picture by M. F. H. De Haas, entitled "Farragut's Fleet Passing the Forts of New Orleans." Douglas Tilden, the sculptor of the Donahue Fountain, has presented his working model in plaster to the Institute. Earl Cummings, the sculptor, has presented the Institute with a bust of Douglas Tilden.

THE FINE ARTS UNION,

"The Octagon," Washington, D. C.

GLENN BROWN,
President.
FRANK MOSS,
Vice-President.

E. C. MESSER,
Treasurer.
THEODORE F. LAIST,
Secretary.

The above officers were elected at the Annual Meeting held November 6, 1899, the stated meetings being held on the first Monday in November, February and May. The object of the Society is to insure united action by the art societies of Washington on all matters affecting their common interests and to foster and protect the artistic interests of the District of Columbia. The affiliated societies are the Washington Society of Artists, the Washington Water Color Club, the Washington Chapter of the A. I. A., the Washington Architectural Club and the Arts and Crafts Society. Each officer is selected from a different society.

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS,

Washington, D. C.

The Division of Prints.

ARTHUR JEFFREYS PARSONS, Chief Clerk.

This is perhaps the most interesting Division of the great National Library, and one which bids fair to become a useful factor in the education of the general public. It contains 83,000 prints of every known reproductive process, from the early wood cut printed by hand to the latest improvement in the photo-mechanical inventions.

The greater portion of this collection is acquired through the copyright law, providing for a deposit of two copies of everything protected. One of these is retained in the registrar's office as a matter of record, and the other distributed to that division to which, by classification, it belongs. The addition of prints received from this source during the past year will amount to 14,000, while those by gift and purchase will reach the neighborhood of 3,500. This is quite an increase over the 10,915 acquired in 1898.

It was this increase, and the utter inability at the old library to exhibit or use it in any manner whatsoever, that led to the creation of a separate department in the new building. In like manner the divisions of music, maps and charts, and even periodicals, owe their very existence to the deposit of copyright.

Mr. Ainsworth R. Spofford, when Librarian, felt this need of separate departments as early as 1872, and when planning for the new building, made special mention of each in his report of that year. Estimates for the building at that time were placed at one million dollars, but as finished in 1897 it costs six times that amount.

The divisions created will attract gifts from various sources, as has been proven, in the offering of the Gardiner Hubbard collection of engravings three months after this department was opened. According to custom, the gift was tendered to the Houses of Congress for their Library, and formally accepted in 1898, but it is quite recently that the Library has gained possession of this rare collection.

Marsh Collection.

As a nucleus of "old prints" the Library had a large part of the "Marsh Collection." This belongs to the Smithsonian Institute, and with their books was moved to the Library of Congress in 1866. Owing to the limited quarters in the Capitol, no use was made of these prints until 1897, when the print department was opened in the new building and an exhibition arranged in the South Curtain. The collection was made by the late Mr. George P. Marsh, while Minister to Italy, and with reference library and illustrated folio editions, was sold to the Smithsonian Institute in 1850 for the sum of $3,000. It has been estimated by experts to be worth ten times that amount. Many of the most valuable prints of the collection were retained by the Smithsonian authorities, and are at present on exhibition at the National Museum. The collection originally contained, according to the official report of 1850, "A fine portfolio of Dürer engravings, consisting of twenty dry point etchings and two from iron plates by his own hand; about sixty copies on copper plates, including the famous set of the 'Life of the Virgin, by Marc-Antonio'; thirteen different portraits of Dürer and a large number of wood-cuts engraved by him or under his instruction." Of these the Library has one hundred prints, among them the Marc-Antonio set. The second portfolio, reported to have a large collection of Rembrandt etchings (including "Christ Healing the Sick," an early and fine impression), was largely picked over and the better part kept at the Smithsonian; also the third portfolio containing two hundred engravings by Claude Lorraine, Hollar and Bega.

The contents of a fourth portfolio were divided and the Library received a collection of ten engraved portraits by Manteuil (among them a first impression of Louis XIV. in armor), eight by Edelinck and a number by Masson, Pitan, Wille, Schmidt, Van Schuppen, Drevet and others. There is also a scrapbook in which is arranged a beautiful collection of portraits of the French school in the seventeenth century.

A fifth portfolio, reported to contain examples of old Italian engraving, was probably culled over at the Smithsonian, and the better part kept; for the Library has only a few, among them two by Marc-Antonio, and some representative prints from the hand of Carracci, Salvator Rosa, Il Perugino, Volpato and Raffael Morghen.

Added to this is a small collection of Dutch, Flemish and English prints of the sixteenth, seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. These received no particular mention in the report, but form an important function in a collection illustrating the growth of engraving as an art and which was so splendidly supplemented by the Hubbard collection.

The Hubbard Collection.

Much has been heard and a great deal written of the beauty, quality and size of this collection. The acquisition of this gift has enthused new life into the Print division and many plans are forming for exhibiting special collections from this wealthy mine of engravings. Already three or four exhibitions have been made, and yet the greater part of the collection has not been seen by the public.

The early German school is especially well represented by small collections from the works of Altdorfer, Aldegrever, Ammon, the two Behans (particularly fine), Cranach, De Bry, Dürer, Hopfer, Penez, Schongaur, Sadeler and Stimmer.

The Dürer dry points, iron plate etchings and wood-cuts, numbering one hundred and ten prints, form a very important collection of this great master's work. The prints are brilliant impressions as a rule, and free from the marks of a repairer's hand; quite remarkable when the age and fame of the engraver are considered. There are an exquisite set of the "Smaller Passion of Jesus Christ," an "Adam and Eve" (which cost $350), nearly all the prints representing the "Virgin," "Saints" and profane subjects; also many wood-cuts. These do not in any way conflict with the Marsh collection, as there are few duplicates.

In making this collection of early German masters, Mr. Hubbard did not neglect collecting those of the modern school. We find many examples of Mandel's work, also Pichler, Steinla, Müller, Felsing and others too numerous to mention. Many of these were purchased at the Mandel sale and are presentation proofs.

In the Italian school are found prints from the following masters: Marc-Antonio, Ravenna, Ribera, Piranesi, Volpato, Morghen, Longhi, Anderloni, Toschi and others. A "St. Cecilia," "Armadaée," "Cleopatra" and "Le Quos ego," by Marc-Antonio, are beautiful examples of his work. There is a fine impression of Raffael Morghen's engraving of the "Last Supper," by Da Vinci. (It is by this engraving that the original is most widely known.) The collection of Morghen's works contains proofs of the "Madonna della Sedia," "Sistine Madonna," "Jurisprudence" and many others.

The Flemish and Dutch schools are represented by a long list of engravers, headed by Rembrandt. The individual collection of Rembrandt's works numbers one hundred etchings, and contains many rare prints, such as "The Three Trees," "Death of the Virgin," "The Great Coppenol Portrait" (before the plate was cut), "The Gold Weigher," "James Sutra," "Wittinbogardus," "Rembrandt Drawing," "The Crucifixion," "Ecce Homo," "Three Crosses" and many others. Individual collections, such as this and the one of Dürer, representing as they do the Homer and Shakespeare in engraving, are worthy of forming a permanent exhibition in one of the galleries. There are various smaller collections of the works of Bolswert, De Passe, Vosterman, Goltzins, Leyden, Matham, Pontius, Potter, Sandraedam, Teniers, Van Dyck, Van-

The French school, representing the work of one hundred and forty-seven different engravers, is particularly rich in examples of the sixteenth and nineteenth centuries. The collected work of the seventeenth century, however, gives a fair illustration of the decline of the art into too much ornate detail of finish. We find a magnificent collection of engravings by Manteuil, Edelinck, Masson, Wille, Schmidt, Van Schuppen, Drevet, Andran, Callot, Lorraine, Desmoyers, Méryon, Jacquet, Bracquemond and a host of other engravers of both the modern and the older schools.

The English engravers of the eighteenth century are no less completely represented, both as to number of artists and separate individual collections. There is a long list of engravers, prominent among them are the names of McArdell, Earlom, Reynolds, Strange, Sharp, Woollett, Gren, Dickinson, Watson, Ward, Vertue, Hollar, Bartolozzi, Seymour Hayden, and Alex. Haig. The Haig collection numbers forty etchings, while in that of Seymour Hayden thirty are found. In each are many artist proofs.

There are lists of English, French, Napoleon and Frederick the Great portraits. Each list contains from one hundred and fifty to two hundred and twenty-five portraits. The French begins with Louis XI. period and includes the Revolution. This is supplemented by the splendid Napoleon collection of over two hundred portraits. The English list begins with the Chaucer period and continues to 1840, while the Frederick the Great collection commences with the portrait of "The Great Elector" and ends with that of William IV. of Germany.

The American school is not very large in the Hubbard collection, but owing to the deposit of copyright, this gap will not be felt in the department. There are, however, eighteen fine etchings by Whistler and a number of proofs from other contemporary artists.

There are one or two smaller collections, acquired by gift or purchase. These are merged in the general collection of the department, it not being considered wise to divide the contents any more than is absolutely necessary.

The entire chapter of art literature is soon to form a part of this department, and a comfortable reading-room will be furnished. This will greatly increase the work, but add to the comfort of the general public. The large illustrated folios, art literature and reference books will be in place. The books from the Marsh and Hubbard collection, supplemented by the purchases of the coming year, will make the reference library of the department as complete as any in the country.

Owing to the small number of clerks, the work of cataloging the sixty thousand prints brought here from the old library is very slow. The system of cataloging is one adapted to the needs of the department. All prints are entered in an accession or register book. The register book contains everything received before 1897, and entries are being made as fast as time will allow; the accession book is kept up to date, each print being recorded as received. A comprehensive card catalogue is making of engraver and subject, with their cross references.

The large halls, located on the second floor south of the main hall, are devoted to exhibition purposes. The present exhibit in the largest of these halls (south curtain) is a collection of Napoleon portraits and historical engravings; also one of German colored prints, after some famous paintings of Europe. These are the gift of the Royal Society of Art Patrons and represent a new process called the "Heliotint." The corner pavilion contains rare old illustrated books of the sixteenth, seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. In the third are etchings and photographs from paintings by American artists. In the Autumn, a number of exhibits from the Hubbard collection will take their place. The work of remounting and cataloging this collection will begin during the Fall of 1900.

AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF ARCHITECTS.

"The Octagon," Washington, D. C.

ROBERT S. PEABODY, Boston, President. FRANK MILES DAY, Philadelphia, 2d Vice-President.

W. S. EAMES, St. Louis, 1st Vice-President. GLENN BROWN, Washington, Secretary & Treasurer.

The above officers were elected at the Thirty-third Annual Convention, which was held at Pittsburgh, Pa., November 13, 14, 15 and 16, 1899. The following is a list of the Chapters, with the number of delegates who were present: New York, 5; Philadelphia, 2; Illinois, 5; Boston, 4; Cincinnati, 3; Rhode Island, 2; San Francisco, none; Indianapolis, 2; Washington, D. C., 4; Michigan, 2; Central New York, 3; Buffalo, 1; St. Louis, 4; Kansas City, none; Cleveland, 1; Pittsburgh, 3; Worcester, none; Southern California, none; Minnesota, none; Chapter at Large, 8; Colorado, 1; Brooklyn, 3, and Dayton, O., 1.

The President, Henry Van Brunt, in his report, suggested a closer union between the Institute and the schools of architecture, and that the practical interest of the Institute in the welfare of the students should be made evident by the establishment of a system of Institute prizes and travelling scholarships. Reference was made to the need of having more Chapters and increasing the membership of those already in existence; to the operation of the Tarnsey Act, under which public buildings at Norfolk, Va., Camden, N. J., and Ellis Island, N. Y., are being erected by private architects, and the New York Custom House and Judiciary Building in Washington have been assigned to competent architects, while the Baltimore Custom House and the national buildings at Cleveland will be subject to competitive design. The munificence and public spirit of Mrs. Phoebe Hearst in connection with the competition for designs for the University of California was commented upon.

The report of the Board of Directors showed that 44 new members were elected during 1898-1899 and two Fellows of the Institute died. Twenty Associates were elected after the Convention. The home of the Institute at "The Octagon" gives room and opportunity for the collection of material of value, and several oil paintings, portraits of architects, were given by Edward Clark, a portrait of Richard Upjohn presented by his daughter and a model of the Hunt Memorial, the gift of Bruce Price; many drawings and photographs have also been received. The library is being increased by exchanges with many architectural societies and periodicals; 63 volumes were received during the year, and 613 pamphlets. It was decided that the Directors publish a "Quarterly Bulletin," giving an index of the publications received, with titles of articles on architecture and the allied arts. A resolution was adopted requesting the Secretary to form as full and exact a collection as possible of data relating to competitions.

The Treasurer's report shows that the expenses of the year, including repairs of the Octagon, were $4,052, leaving a balance on hand of $890.

The Committee on Education was authorized to report at the next Convention such changes in the Constitution and By-Laws as might be necessary in order that some examination or method of admission be a pre-requisite of membership in the Institute on and after some special date, say Jan. 1, 1905.

Reports were read from the various committees and chapters. The reading of an article on "Electricity in Modern Buildings" by E. R. Hill was followed by a visit to the Westinghouse electric works at East Pittsburgh. "The Influence of the French School of Design upon Architecture in America" was the subject of papers by A. L. Brockway, Ralph Adams Cram, and H. Langford Warren, followed by a discussion. A short article on "Plate Glass" preceded a visit to the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Works at Charleroi, forty miles from the city. The fourth session was devoted to papers by Henry Rutgers Marshall and C. H. Blackall, on "The Legitimate Design of the Architectural Casing for Skeleton Steel Structures," followed by a discussion. "Architecture, the Sister Arts and Artistic Trades" was the subject of an address by Levi T. Scofield. Wm. Ordway Partridge spoke on "The Relation of Sculpture to Architecture," and Elmer E. Garnsey on "Mural Painting in Its Relation to Architecture." During the sixth session a paper on "The Relation of the Hebrews to Architectural Development" was followed by a report on "Competitions" by Professor William R. Ware.

"Notes on the Manufacture of Structural Steel" by F. H. Kindl of the Carnegie Steel Company preceded a visit to the works of the company.

The thirty-fourth annual convention will be held in Washington, D. C., Dec. 12 to 15, 1900, during the period of the celebration of the 100th anniversary of the founding of the Government in the city of Washington.

THE AMERICAN PARK AND OUTDOOR ART ASSOCIATION.

Vice-Presidents:
L. E. HOLDEN, Cleveland, O., President.	LEWIS, JOHNSON, New Orleans, La.
OSSIAN C. SIMONDS, Chicago, Treasurer.	MILTON L. MOORE, Toledo, Ohio. THOMAS H. MACBRIDE, Iowa City, Ia.
WARREN H. MANNING, Secretary, 1146 Tremont Bldg., Boston, Mass.	LINUS WOOLVERTON, Grimsby, Ont., Canada. EDWARD J. PARKER, Quincy, Ill. JOHN C. OLMSTED, Brookline, Mass.

The American Park and Outdoor Art Association, organized in May, 1897, for the purpose of promoting the conservation of natural scenery, the acquirement and improvement of land for public parks and reservations, and the advancement of all outdoor art having to do with the designing and fitting of grounds for public and private use and enjoyment, has passed resolutions in favor of the establishment of National and State parks in various parts of the country, notably Minnesota, Wisconsin and North Carolina; also against the destruction of our forests and against the evils of public advertising, having instituted a crusade against the prevalence of the billboard in our country landscapes and on the billboards of our large cities. On this one point it is believed that the influence of the last Outdoor Art Annual Meeting, held in Chicago June 5-7, 1900, upon the people of that city has been real and far-reaching and it is hoped that a radical law against the erection of billboards along the boulevards will be passed before long.

Practical lectures have been given by members of this Association in different parts of the country upon the following subjects, among others: "The improvement and adornment of villages and towns" and the wisdom of "enlisting school children's interest in making their school surroundings artistic and beautiful," and in the "planting and protection of street trees;" upon "outdoor art as applied to factories and workmen's homes," and upon "some of the evils of the present methods of public advertising." These lectures are fully illustrated by stereopticon views, which make plain the speakers' ideas and rouse their hearers to go and do likewise.

The Association hopes during the year 1900-1901, by its co-operation with such associations as the Twentieth Century Club of Boston, the Art Association and the Municipal Art League of Chicago, and the Architectural League of America, to accomplish more tangible results in abolishing many of the billboards which now deface country and city alike and in preventing future abuse in this direction.

It is expected that the women members of the Association will form an Auxiliary which will become connected with the General Federation of Women's Clubs, thus securing its aid in disseminating information regarding the uses and advantages of landscape art.

The Association gave an Exhibition of three hundred photographs in the Art Institute of Chicago at its last annual meeting and will hold another but more extensive exhibition at its coming meeting in Milwaukee, June, 1901. The views will be arranged to show attractive natural conditions and the unnecessary mutilation of such, schemes of landscape adornment with artistic and inartistic treatment, and will comprise the treatment of grounds about homes and public buildings, of roads, paths, shore lines, rocks, lawns, gardens, and the setting of statuary, fountains, seats, and so forth. The League is composed of Ceramic Clubs and professional ceramic artists not affiliated with a club, and has an aggregate membership of about 500 individuals from various parts of the United States. Its object is to bring the members into communication and lead gradually to the development of a national school of mineral painting. Every club is pledged to aid to the best of its ability, by correspondence and by interchange of documents and papers, in bringing to the knowledge of all the associated clubs, any method of work or useful information.

Each year in the month of May the League holds a comparative exhibition of the work of its members. A course of study has been prepared for the season of 1900-1901 and gold, silver and bronze medals will be awarded. Each medal carries in addition a prize scholarship. The award of the gold medal will be for a "Medal Design for the N. L. M. P.," all designs to be submitted before March 31, 1901, Mrs. Worth Osgood, Chairman, 402 Madison Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The League's exhibit to the Paris Exposition was made in the Department of Varied Industries and was in charge of Mrs. M. L. Wagner, of Detroit. League members received nine awards; bronze medals were awarded to the National League of Mineral Painters, Mrs. S. S. Frackelton (separate exhibit), Ellsworth Woodward (Newcomb Pottery), and Dedham Pottery. Honorable mention was given to Mrs. Wm. J. Irelan, of the Roblin Pottery and to three mineral painters. The standpoint of judgment taken by the jury was "pottery," and for that reason application has been made for a class for "ceramic painting and decoration" in the Pan-American Exposition.

Members not represented in the Paris display held an exhibition with the Art Department of the General Federation of Women's Clubs at Milwaukee, in June, 1900.

PART II.—DIRECTORIES.

DIRECTORY OF ARTISTS.

In the spring of 1900 a data blank was sent to each member of the leading art societies in the United States and Canada. These were filled out and returned to the Editor, and the information thus secured, together with the data sent for the 1898 volume of the "American Art Annual," has been used in compiling the Directory. In addition the exhibitors at the regular Annual Exhibitions are entered.

As the Directory is a regular feature of the "American Art Annual," published in the autumn of each year, the Editor will be pleased to receive further information and to be notified, before September first of each year, of any change of address or error in the previous issue.

When two addresses are given and the second one is preceded by "h" it indicates that the first is the studio, the second the home address. The day of the week following the address is the "reception day." In the names of women "Mrs." has been used where necessary; all others are "Miss." The date after the societies of which an artist is a member refers to time of election.

"We congratulate the editor, Florence N. As an art directory alone it fills a want that nothing else in the field supplies; while as a chronicler of past events, and as an index of what is going on, it is unique and very valuable.
